

Affiliate/Advertiser Disclaimer

AFFILIATE DISCLAIMER This website HubAppraisal.com from time to time may offer some links, services or materials from multiple affiliate partners that should you choose to use or purchase products or services from, may provide an affiliate commission or some form of income or benefit.

ADVERTISER DISCLAIMER Some of the advertisers on or throughout this website HubAppraisal.com are potentially advertisers or marketers that pay to advertise or be a part of the site for marketing to the users of this site. A commission or other form of income and benefit may have been provided as part of our agreement.

PRODUCT SALES There may be or become available from time to time products or services for sale on or through this website for a fee. Some items may be, but not limited to eBooks, training sessions, manuals, coaching, webinars or various other products or services.

REFERRALS While this website is not specifically designed to offer either real estate brokerage services or appraisal services directly to the consumer there may be referral networking opportunities.

Should you request that this website assist and oversee the process in locating either real estate brokerage services or appraisal services anywhere in the United States and its territories will be forwarded to our affiliate licensed partners in real estate and appraising to service and oversee the process of the leads on your behalf. This particular site is not able to receive referral commissions for real estate and appraisal services by license law.

The owners of this website US Realty Consultants, LLC on behalf of and its content supplier Steven Boucher have no other relationships with the vendors unless disclosed. The owners of this site may have personally used most of the products and services offered on the website while others may not have been.

The sole responsibility for research and oversight is that of the user or buyer.

Thanks for visitingHubAppraisal.com!

Best Regards,

Steve