

Pet Boarding Agreement

The proprietors and the staff of Bunny Lodge undertake to treat all pets with the utmost care and respect and are committed to the health, welfare, well-being and happiness of our guests.

While the proprietors and their employees will take all reasonable care with respect to cleanliness, hygiene and disinfection procedures, they cannot be held responsible for afflictions by and costs associated with any infectious diseases (including kennel cough) or parasites (such as fleas and worms).

While the proprietors and their employees will take all reasonable care, the owner of a dog will be held totally and solely responsible for any injury or death caused to another dog or person (including all veterinary or medical costs), or any damage caused to the accessories of another pet, while that dog is within the premises of Bunny Lodge.

Female dogs will be boarded while "in season" without prior discussion with and agreement from the proprietors or their staff. Entire (unneutered) male cats will not be accepted for boarding.
