Gin dates back to early 17th Century Holland, where it was known as Jenever. It was produced as a tonic to treat stomach complaints, gout and gallstones. To make it more palatable, the Dutch started to flavour it with juniper, which has medicinal properties of its own. British troops fighting in the Low Countries during the Thirty Years' War were given 'Dutch Courage' throughout the long campaigns and the damp weather as gin was considered to have warming properties. After the war, the troops brought gin home with them, and the rest, as they say, is history!

There's no doubt that gin has undergone a revolution in the UK and the South West has a fabulous range of distilleries from which we have selected our favourites and matched them with what we think is the best premium Fever Tree Tonic & garnish

Aside from our premium, local gins, we are continually on the search for new gin styles and trends, so please ask our team for our ever changing 'Gin Of The Month' - often a fruity number!
